AARP is fighting for Virginia's workers.

With more than one million members in Virginia, AARP is fighting for all Virginians aged 50-plus and their families at the General Assembly. Our top priority for the 2017 session is to ensure that the 1.3 million Virginia workers who don't have access to a workplace retirement account are able to save for the future.

2017-LETS ALL GET AUTO SALES ON A ROLL

How can we do that?

Helping people understand that paying part of the depreciation versus the entire vehicle could provide a lower monthly payment.

How can a consumer do this?

Understand and investigate lease payments for new vehicles.

Why is it important?

Each time a vehicle is sold in the Commonwealth the consumer pays sales tax and the factory continues to move product.

“Shorter is better”

is a way to look at this concept. If a person leases 3 vehicles in 6 years versus buying one and paying 72 payments the consumer can win in many ways and the sales tax raised increases! The Franchise dealer can help the consumer find great deals by being their consultant.

Virginia Capitol Connections salutes the Sorensen Institute

Tom Walls, a legal, legislative and political advocate, is the new executive director of the University of Virginia's Thomas C. Sorensen Institute for Political Leadership, a program that trains Virginians in the skills of politics and public policy and promotes ethics and civility in public life.

Ray LaMura, chairman-elect of Sorensen's Statewide Advisory Board and chair of the search committee that chose Walls, announced the appointment.

"We are very pleased that Tom Walls will be leading the Sorensen Institute at this important time," LaMura said. "Tom received recommendations from both sides of the aisle as a person of character, ability and good will. The members of the search committee unanimously agreed that the Sorensen Institute will be well-served with Tom Walls as its new executive director."

Walls succeeded Bob Gibson as executive director last month. Gibson has been named senior researcher of the Academy for Civic Renewal at UVA's Weldon Cooper Center for Public Service.

"The Sorensen Institute's mission to train political leaders and foster ethics and civility in public life is more vital today than it has ever been," Walls said. "I'm honored to have this opportunity to join the Sorensen team as executive director, and eager to get started on this important work with partners across Virginia, and across the political spectrum."

Walls holds two UVA degrees. He is a 1987 graduate of the School of Law and earned a B.A. in English in 1982.

He has served as a senior staff member to three U.S. senators, most recently as chief counsel to Sen. Mark Warner of Virginia. He was a partner at McGuireWoods LLP and senior vice president of federal public affairs at McGuireWoods Consulting. Before joining Sorensen, Walls held the position of principal in the Public Policy and Regulation group at Dentons US LLP in Washington, D.C.

Walls' legislative, political, legal and academic experience is broad and varied. He has played key roles in campaigns at every level, the legislative arena, congressional investigations, in academia and as an attorney helping clients to navigate matters of policy and ethical compliance. His experience has informed his many years as an adjunct faculty member at the George Washington University Law School.

Charlottesville businessmen Leigh Middleditch and Michael Bills founded the Sorensen Institute as the Virginia Institute of Political Leadership in 1993. The organization took the name of generous benefactor Thomas C. Sorensen in 1997. The institute's programs are designed to help Virginians understand governance and government, ethics and campaign conduct, and the complexity of public policy issues.

In addition to the flagship 10-month Political Leadership Program, the Sorensen Institute provides development opportunities through a Candidate Training Program, a High School Leadership Program, an Emerging Leaders Program and a regional program in Southern Virginia.

You can support the mission of the Sorensen Institute by making a gift at giving.virginia.edu/sorensen.
